Critical views

"With Mihai Eminescu we have in the European literature the last great romantic poet, keeping in his existence and in his works the characteristic contour of the romantic artists' drama. Forever aspiring to a higher level of life, superior both ethically and esthetically, searching with pathos for the truth and consistently refusing to compromise, Eminescu was always in conflict with the world of his times because of his non-conformism, of his sincerity in the acts of his life, and of the height of his thinking, doubled by a thirst of absolute knowledge."

Texts

"And if branches knock in the window
And the aspen trees are shaking
Is for me to have you in my mind
And to get you close to me, slowly.

And If...

And if the thick clouds fade away
So the Moon comes shining out
Is for me to remember
You forever.

And if stars mirror in the lake
Lightening its deepness
Is for me to soothe my pain
Brightening up my mind.
